CITY COUNCIL SCORES BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS

Charges Made at Meeting Last Night That They Have Not Acted in Good Faith--$1200 Voted for Carrying on of Work.

For more than two hours last evening the City Council were in session, attempting to straighten out the tangle of the money matters in which the Board of Public Works is now fast. Several of the members of the council, in no uncertain language, stated that in their belief the Board of Public Works had not acted with due regard to the best interests of the city and that they had exceeded their appropriation in order to compel the City Government to give them back the $2000.00 out of the amount asked for their appropriation at the beginning of the year. After almost two hours the council voted, on a motion made by Councilman Northwick, to authorize the auditor, to transfer from funds available and not otherwise appropriated, the following sums:--$1200. to the street payroll and $521.00 for a sum already expended for the destroying of moths on private property.

By passing this resolution the city department will again be in a position to collect the ashes and rubbish as has been done in the past and necessary work on the public highways will be recommenced.

Two requests made by the Board for further transfers were refused by the council. One asked for an additional $600 for the purchase of oil for Denmet street, Daniel street and Noble's Island road. The other was for a transfer of $500. for the repairs of highways and streets which the council considered unnecessary at the present time.

On a motion by Councilman Bennett a resolution was passed transferring $775. from the $800. left over from the new fire whistle fund, to be used as follows:

General expenses, $100.
Fire alarm department, $125.

Police department, $150.

Public buildings and places, $400.

The meeting was called to order by the Mayor, with all members of the Council by Councilman Berry, present. A resolution drawn up by the Board of Public Works was read by the mayor and on motion by Councilman Northwick, was accepted and placed on record. The resolution asked for $1200 for the street payroll, $520.20 for the bills for destroying moths, $500. for repairs on streets and $600 for the further purchase of oil for Denmet street, Daniel street and Noble's Island road.

The last two articles brought out strong opposition. Councilman Dowdell stated that in his opinion, oil was not necessary at this time of the year and would be a waste of the city's money as winter was coming on and in the wet season the roads would be cut up, making the work necessary again in the spring. This same stand was taken by Councilman Helt and Councilman Sullivan.

Councilman Smart asked the auditor through the mayor, "If we give the Board these sums, will it exceed the original sum of $35,000 appropriated?" The question was answered in the affirmative, the auditor stating that it would bring the sum up to about $38,800. But it was brought out by the Mayor that some money not considered at the time the appropriation was made was expended by the Board in repairs on Middle street, amounting to about $1000 to $1800. Councilman Smart then said: "That would bring the total amount up to $37,000.00 or the figure which the Board asked for at the beginning of the year." The auditor admitted that it would.

TO MAKE SHELLS AT FREEMAN'S POINT

PLANT THAT WILL BE USED TO MAKE WAR MUNITIONS

Big Paper Plant May Be Sold to R. B. Phillips Co. For a War Munition Factory---Twenty-Four Million Dollar Contract For Russia on Hand ---May Employ a Thousand Men---Plans Not Yet Perfected

Portsmouth's fondest hopes of seeing the big plant of the Colonial Paper Co. at Freeman's Point completed and thousands of men employed is about to be realized, and The Herald takes great pleasure in announcing the fact that the big plant has been sold by the Equitable Trust Co. of New York to a new company affiliated with the American Steam Gauge and Valve Co. for the manufacture of munitions of war for the allies.

The prospects are that within a short time 1000 men will be employed and with an ultimate aim of the company to take on at least 3,000 when the big plant is completed.

The Herald's knowledge of this big deal antedates the arrival of the commission here that looked over the plant and a Herald representative met them on their arrival. Now the reason why The Herald has kept quiet on this matter for the past three weeks was the sole desire not to jeopardize the plans of the new company or give the information publicly, so that other cities would be after the plant. It had also in mind the fact that a premature publication of news by a local paper (not The Herald) is said to be responsible for the failure of the Colonial Paper Co. to carry out their original plans at this big plant. This paper has always been optimistic of the future of this big plant, and now it seems that this has been justified, for it looks like the greatest boom this city or any other city in this state has ever had, is about to come.

Already the representative of the General Electric Company, who will renovate the present electrical plant and provide additional new machinery, has arrived here.

The Boston & Maine railroad has received orders for a large number of additional spur tracks into the plant.

and work will be started immediately in making the necessary surveys.

The plans of the new company as outlined are for a completion of the big plant along the original lines laid down by the White Mountain Paper Company, and this of course will mean the employment of many hundreds of mechanics this fall and winter.

It is learned from a reliable source that this new plant will be a branch of the famous Dupont powder company of Delaware and its prospects may be imagined from the fact that in eight months this company's new plant outside of Wilmington has increased so that now 14,000 men are

BULGARIA DECLARES WAR ON SERBIA

(Special to The Herald)

Paris, Oct. 13.—Bulgaria formally declared war on Serb at midnight Sunday and at the same hour the Bulgarian troops started for the Serbian border with the intention of cutting the Nish railroad, with the object of not only isolating the Serbian capital but stopping the advance of the allies, who are on their way from Salonika to assist the Serbs.

Berlin, Oct. 13 (by wireless)—German troops advancing into Serbia are meeting with the most obstinate resistance and so far have held the German army back to the river. Their artillery fire seems to be particularly effective and it has inflicted heavy loss on the advancing troops.

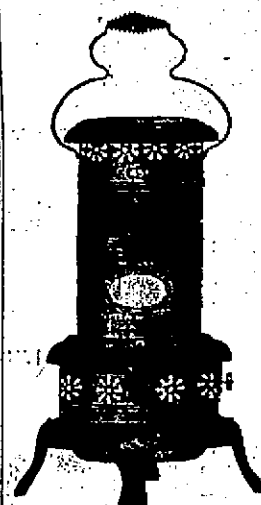

Athens, Oct. 13.—The Serbian legation here announces the defeat of the Bulgarian troops who attempted to cut the Nish-Rochovci railroad. It was also stated that the Serbians are holding both the Bulgarians and Germans back.

SYNOPSIS.

On the day of the eruption of Mount Pelée Capt. John Hardin of the steamer Pelée rescued five-year-old Annette Ilington from an open boat, but is forced to leave behind her father and his companions. Ilington is assaulted by Hernandez and Porto in a vain attempt to get papers which Ilington has managed to send aboard the Pelée with his daughter, papers proving his title to and selling the whereabouts of the lost island of Chinabar. Ilington's injury causes his mind to become a blank. Fifteen years elapse. Hernandez, now an opium smuggler, with Porto, Inez, a female accomplice, and the mindless brute that once was Ilington, gone to Europe, where the widow of Captain Hardin is living with her son Neal and Annette Ilington, and plot to steal the papers left to Annette by her father. Neal tries for admission to the Naval academy, but through the treachery of Joey Welcher is defeated by Inez and disgraced. Neal enlists in the navy. Inez sells her soul for Inez and the conspirators get him in their power. He agrees to steal the papers for them, but is betrayed to the Hardin home. The brute man rescues Annette with the papers from the flames. Annette discovers that heat applied to the map reveals the location of the lost island. Subsequently in a struggle for its possession the map is torn in three parts. Hernandez, Annette and Neal each securing a portion. Annette sails on the Coronado in search of her father. The crew, crazed by cocaine smuggled aboard by Hernandez, mutiny and are overborne by a boarding party from U. S. Destroyer Jackson, led by Neal.

CHAPTER XXV.

A Secret Service Message.

Neal turned to Annette. "Good," he exclaimed, "you're safe at any rate. Where is my mother—where are the rest?"

"In the wireless room," returned Annette. She laughed a bit hysterically. "Even Joe Welcher is quite safe," she said.

Neal held her for a moment, shielding her body with his own. He looked about him.

"This mutiny is over," he said, in a tone of relief.

He was quite right. The mutiny was over, but with disastrous results. Neal's commanding officer lay on the deck with a fractured skull. The captain and the mate of the frigate Coronado were dead or nearly so, and the decks were strewn with disabled, bleeding mutineers.

"Now come with me," said Neal. He waved his hand and a small squad of his companions joined him. He sought and found his mother and her frightened companions, Joe Welcher and the Castro girl—known to the rest as Irene Courtier. He led them aft and placed a guard over them.

"Now," he said warningly, "stay where you are, mother, and all the rest. You, too, Annette. I've got my work out for me for some hours."

Annette shook her head. "Not until I draw your arm," she said.

Neal nodded to one of his companions. "Mate," he said, "shoot the first person who disobeys. I've got other fish to fry."

He went back to his work. He waved to the Jackson for his orders. The orders were brief and to the point:

"You take charge of the steamer. We are sending help."

He took charge of the steamer, not only because he was ordered, but because he had to.

Inside of half an hour he had his own lieutenant's wounds carefully and scientifically dressed—had all his own companions well attended to—in short, in a few hours he had righted the ship completely.

He signalled for further orders, for the Coronado was now resting quietly at anchor, and he got his orders:

"Put into the nearest port."

By midnight they had reached the nearest port—had docked. By midnight he had landed all his passengers and had resorted considerable progress to his commander on the Jackson. By midnight something else happened—a secret service message filtered through space and got the wireless operator on the destroyer. Reduced from cipher, it read about like this:

American citizen said collecting arms and ammunition at Martinique or Porto Rico for Dolores Insurrection. Follow at once. Investigate, arrest, prevent. Report.

Next morning this news had filtered into Neal. He took it to the homely little hotel where Annette and his mother and her party had been harbored for the night. He dropped into a chair.

"Now," he said, "I can talk and listen to some talk. Gee whiz, but I'm dog tired."

Annette pouted; then she smiled. "I love to talk," she said. And then she added two significant words. "Scar-face."

Neal leaped to his feet. "Scar-face," he cried. "Where? When? What?"

"On the Coronado," said Annette. "I saw him twice—Scar-face and his two companions, the big man and the other."

"Tell me everything," said Neal. She told him. He waited impatiently until she had finished, then darted down upon the wharf again. He boarded the Coronado and gave orders for a search. The search was made, but without avail, for at midnight on the night before something else happened. Hernandez and his two companions, together with his cargo of cocaine and heroin, had slipped quietly overboard into a borrowed rowboat and had disappeared.

Neal, chagrined, went back to Annette.

"The bird has flown," he said disgruntled.

"Where do you go, Neal?" queried his mother.

"It's an open secret where we go," said Neal, "but why we go nobody knows. We go first to Martinique."

Annette sprang to her feet. "Martinique," she cried, "that is where my father came from—where you picked me up. I go there, too, Neal. It's the beginning point. Is there I can find trace of my father?"

Inez shrugged her shoulders. "It is fate," she said.

"We will all go," said Mrs. Hardin. "We will stick to Neal. But how?"

"Search me," said Neal, "but I can find that out—there must be some vessel from this port for southern waters."

Inez rose and placed a hand on Welcher's shoulder. "Leave it to Joey here and me," she said.

They scoured the town, but Inez Castro was looking for something other than a boat for Martinique. Finally she saw what she was looking for—a grimy hand thrust from behind a window shade.

Pausing before the door of a disreputable-looking habitation, she glanced up and down the street, then dragging Joe Welcher close behind her she entered the low doorway and passed into the gloom beyond. A moment later she faced Hernandez and his crew.

"So," she said airily, pushing Joe Welcher into a chair, "so my flesh friends, where do you think we go to now?"

"Where?" demanded Hernandez. "To Martinique," said Inez Castro.

Hernandez smiled and slapped his thigh. "So you go to Martinique," he cried, with a note of triumph in his voice. "How very fortunate. I go to Martinique myself."

The governor of Martinique glanced gravely at the pretty girl who faced him. He laid down the piece of tattered parchment that he had just inspected and took up the locket that she placed before him.

"I know your father well fifteen or sixteen years ago—even before that. I remember him. This resembles him, this picture, it does indeed." He smiled. "I remember something else. I remember also you."

"You remember me," cried Annette. "You must have a wonderful memory, sir."

The governor held up his hands. "One remembers everything that happened in a year like that," he said, "a year that wiped out thousands upon thousands of our people."

"Is there any clue to my father?" queried Annette.

"Little one," said the governor, "there was no clue to anything or anybody, or any place."

Annette rose. "There's nothing else that you remember of my father?" she queried.

"The governor searched his memory. 'Yes,' he said. 'I think a mystery—there was a tang of adventure about him. He, too, was a rover—always restless—always on the move. But for his child one might have called him a soldier of fortune—honest, perhaps too honest, but fearless—'

"And true," said Annette. "Fearless and true," repeated the governor nodding.

"What is past is past," he said. "Old Pelée is ashamed of himself. The Isle of Martinique grows green. We sing, we laugh, my people and myself. Even all this week we celebrate. You must join us." He signed half a dozen cards of invitation and handed them to Joe Welcher, who sat quite as usual, sulking in the background. "The governor's levee," he went on airily, "and you are all invited."

CHAPTER XXVI.

The Razor Back.

Around the corner of the coast line on the Isle of Martinique—invisible both from the bridge of the destroyer Jackson and from the grounds of the governor, there jutted out into the sea a cliff, stern and forbidding. As a matter of fact, it was not all rock, this cliff—a large part of its formation was of clay. Down the face of this cliff, its sharp edges rising now and then into the air like peaks, there trailed a path, narrow and perilous, from shore to cliff edge, known to certain of the inhabitants of Martinique as the Razor Back.

Along this sharp, steep edge ran a rope, and climbing the Razor Back, clinging to this rope with a huge burden on his shoulders, upward crawled a man. Below him, thrusting its nose into the beach, was a disreputable-looking boat laden with heavy wooden boxes.

This man, in reality a giant, looked like a pygmy from below as he crawled hand over hand to the heights above. At the edge of the cliff he was assisted by two other men who dragged him on to terra firma and who relieved him of his burden. This burden they carried between them to a hut. Before doing so they out the big man across the shoulders with a whip and pointed to the shore below. The big man nodded. He stood for one moment on the edge of the cliff and gazed about him. He gauged the grade of the wicked, sharp, big Razor Back, and nodded once again; then stately he leaped over the face of the cliff, striking his heels into the edge of that perilous path some thirty feet or more below—and then in spite of his huge bulk ran like a deer down to the beach.

The men above dropped their burden and watched him.

"Ah," said Hernandez to his comrade Porto, "the beast—he knows that Razor Back. He has not forgotten fifteen years ago."

There was a touch upon Hernandez's shoulder. Hernandez whirled as though at the fall of a trigger. A third man faced him, low-browed, cunning-eyed. Hernandez breathed a sigh of relief.

Half an hour later, with his final load strapped to his back, the brute climbed for the last time over the edge of the cliff, this time bearing his own burden to the hut. The three men already within the hut admitted him.

There was no window to this hut, and the light within was dim. The room was bare. "Tidy little bungalow, friend smuggler of Martinique," he said.

The other man smiled grimly in his turn. "Tidy is the word, soldier of fortune," he returned. "At any rate it's safe. You think all the palace matches it. Come with me."

He strode to the corner of the hut and threw aside a matchbox. Leaning down he cleared away a number of short war-meat boards, then he lifted up a sheetiron door. With an exclamation of surprise Hernandez and his companions observed that there was a narrow passageway cut through the solid earth. One by one each man lowered himself into this passageway and followed his leader. From a perpendicular shaft the corridor shelled off into a passage almost horizontal and widened as it went.

"This," said the smuggler of Martinique, "is the third story, as it were. Neal, not gaudy."

"Now for the bathroom, if you please."

This time they descended a wider set of stairs and stepped out upon a ledge that surrounded a deep and lurid pool of water. Hernandez regarded this pool attentively.

"First it rises," he exclaimed, "and then it falls."

"Ah," said the man of Martinique, "we are at sea level. This is a cave and there is no outlet to it."

"Somewhere there is," returned Hernandez.

"Yes, in the attic—the sky parlor," said the other man.

"Somewhere else," said Hernandez,

2. The program for defense submitted by army and navy experts should be made effective by Congress and its adopting does not mean militarism.
3. Politics should be eliminated from preparedness.
4. A stronger and better balanced navy and a reasonable increase in the army.
5. A larger and more efficient national guard.
6. That preparedness is the best possible peace insurance.

Conditions

There are some few conditions applied to the essays or articles submitted in order that they may be eligible for the prize.

The conditions are specified as follows:

1. No limitations as to age or sex.
2. The article must reach headquarters of the National Security League 31 Pine street, New York city, not later than noon, November 1, 1916. (The award will be announced on Thanksgiving Day.)
3. No manuscript in excess of 500 words will be considered and all contributions must be typewritten on one side of the paper only.

5. The award will be made by a committee of five persons of national prominence, whose names will be announced later.
6. The National Security League reserves the right to use and publish the manuscript which is awarded the prize as well as all manuscripts which may be awarded honorable mention.

The value of the article is awakening popular appreciation of our national peril and necessities with no consideration as well as literary merit.

Additional information as to the conditions of the contest may be secured by addressing the headquarters of the National Security League at 31 Pine Street, New York City.

You can put your ashes out again, the city is ready to take care of them once more.

GIRL BRIDE ARRESTED FOR OPERATING CAR WITHOUT A LICENSE

Mrs. May (Blissdell) Bliscoe, the bride of five days of John Bliscoe of this city, a seaman in the navy, was in the Somersworth municipal court Monday, charged with operating an automobile without a license. She was arrested Sunday by patrolman Faucher on Market street, and being unable to obtain bail, spent the night in a cell.

She pleaded not guilty. Patrolman Deschene testified he observed the girl, last Monday, driving the car up Main street from Herwick and back again into Maine and that her escape from accident appeared to him almost a miracle.

Judge Stevens imposed a fine of $5 and costs of $6.75. Her husband told the court he would pay the fine.

A Word for the Cat.

There is probably no country on the face of the earth in which there are so many "issues" and so many "causes" to be advanced as there are in the United States. Men, women and children in this country are unhappy unless they belong to one or numerous organizations laboring to make something or anything different from what it has been in the past, and all in the name of uplift and reform.

These facts are well illustrated by the present activity of the National Association of Audubon Societies against cats. These good people have managed in some way to figure out that cats kill 5,000,000 birds in this country every year. In modern movements it will not do to talk in anything less than millions. The people like big figures, and it is just as easy to prattle them as it is to spread insignificant numbers on paper. The truth of this statement is demonstrated daily.

And so the Audubon societies come forward with the claim that American cats are killing 5,000,000 song birds every year; and that there is consequently solid ground for a movement against this common household pet, and an animal that is almost invaluable on the farm.

Without doubt large numbers of birds are killed by cats, but how about rats and mice? Strip the farms of cats and the losses in grains and other produce caused by rats and mice would make this alleged wholesale slaughter of birds look tame by comparison.

There is an old saying, "There is no great loss without some small gain," and with truth the saying might be reversed so as to read, "There is no great gain without some small loss." The horse is a very useful animal, but he sometimes runs away and does damage. The dog is valuable to the stockman and the sportsman, but he sometimes kills sheep. The automobile is the king of all highway conveyances, but we are all familiar with its daily record of killings and maimings.

In view of these truths it is silly to wage warfare against cats because they kill now and then a songbird. There is not an animal on the farm that pays its way better than a good mouser, and as a pet for children, and grownups as well, the cat has always held and still holds a high place.

An organized movement against the cat will strike the average man and woman as pretty small business, something that might well be deferred until certain other crusades have been carried to a conclusion. There are more important matters demanding consideration. It is an easy matter to dispose of an obnoxious cat, but the cat family is entitled to respect in its humble sphere.

Former President Taft thinks the foreign nations will be so exhausted by the war that they will crave peace for a long time after the struggle ends. This seems like a reasonable view; notwithstanding the fear in numerous quarters that very soon after this war ends some ambitious power will come stalking across the Atlantic to "gobble up" the United States.

The idea of creating a reserve army of 1,000,000 men who have seen service to take the place of an expensive standing army does not seem so wide of the mark as some of the propositions that come to the surface in these exciting times. The plan is favored by the secretary of war, by Admiral Dewey and others whose judgment is entitled to respect.

In the lecture course of the Troy, N. Y., Young Men's Christian Association one of the speakers will be Jack Rose, one of the characters who figured in the famous Rosenthal murder case. He will give his hearers "Lessons from the underworld." His experience should enable him to perform this task faithfully and well.

The magnitude of the Panama canal slide grows with additional reports. It is now stated that the channel will probably not be open for traffic before the end of the year. All that is known is that it will be opened as soon as possible. No grass will be allowed to grow on that accumulation of mud, big as it is.

According to reports, the lid was down very tight in Chicago last Sunday, there being only twelve violations of the liquor laws among over 7,000 saloons. If it is possible to enforce the law like that one day why can it not be done every day?

The cost of living in the New York stock exchange is also advancing. The price of a seat is double what it was a year ago.

Football will be ready to take the attention of the public immediately after the close of the baseball frenzy. Already the practice games have sent numerous men to the hospitals.

And even "rooling" has risen almost to the dignity of a profession—minus the dignity.

CURRENT OPINION

Insurance of Peace Will Cost Money, but It Is Worth the Price.

A free people, says Washington, should be armed and disciplined according to some well adjusted plan. Whose plan? I should say that the recommendations in the first instance should come from our military experts, and that in so far as their recommendations were unanimous they should be adopted without much debate and regardless of cost, with the understanding, however, that the sole purpose to be observed is not conquest, but self defense.

This simplifies and limits the problem as well as the expense. It means obviously a big navy—as big as any navy in the world—with every flying, diving, amphibious auxiliary that can add to its effectiveness and with all the munitions and means to boot—munitions for a year's campaign at least always in cold storage. It means as many naval officers and men as may be necessary easily to operate the machinery furnished by the government.

And inasmuch as most of the machinery will be complicated and scientific it means officers and men of brains and technical training.

But this sort of men can't at all times find lucrative employment in private life, which means that the government must outbid the market for their services. Insurance will cost money, but it is worth the price.—By Henry D. Eastbrook, Noted New York Lawyer.

RIFLE TEAM LEAVES FOR FLORIDA

The New Hampshire rifle team is off for Jacksonville, Fla., and received a royal send off from a large number of the millmen and the friends who gathered at the Manchester station to wish them luck in the contests to take place October 20 and 21.

The men were confident of giving a good account of themselves and will do their utmost to bring honor to New Hampshire.

The members of the team from Keene, Portsmouth and the North Country arrived in Manchester yesterday at 8.15 o'clock. The train left Manchester at 8.45 arriving at Nashua at 9.15. On reaching Lowell, Mass., the party boarded the Bar Harbor express sleeper for New York, arriving there at 7 o'clock this morning.

From New York they will leave on the Pennsylvania railroad in a Pullman direct for Jacksonville, Fla., reaching there Thursday afternoon at three o'clock.

Captain Alonzo McKinley of Nashua in addition to his duties as team coach will act as quartermaster and commissary.

Captain G. Perley Elliot in addition to his duties as team spotter will act as adjutant. At the close of the contest he will arrange for return transportation a few days later than the scheduled calls for in order to give the men time for sightseeing.

The twenty men have been furnished with new khaki suits and bedding rolls, these rolls do away with carrying any extra trunks or baggage and are very convenient. Preliminary practice will be indulged in Friday and Saturday and on Monday and Tuesday, October 18 and 19 the national individual shoot will take place; the winner to be considered "the best shot in national guards of the country."

On Wednesday and Thursday, October 20 and 21 the National team shoot will take place in which the New Hampshire team will take part and the boys feel confident in making a good showing. They were selected after a hard competitive shoot at he range at Massalese, the last week in September. They shot under very unfavorable conditions, especially against a strong wind but made good scores.

PEOPLES' OPINION

Protest from a Fan

Editor:

Being a spectator and fan at Saturday's football game between the Marines and Portsmouth All Stars, I wish to say that the All Star team of Portsmouth had the poorest of arrangements for handling the spectators as they were allowed to roam all over the field which caused quite a delay in the game and demonstrated poor treatment to the visiting team. I, for one, have seen the Marine team in action and must say due to the crowd's interference, for which the All Stars were responsible, they (the Marines) could not make their best plays. Also as stated above the facilities were poor in that the field was not chalked off; no referee, umpire, timekeeper or line men were arranged for before the game; furthermore there was a collection taken up among the spectators, and I have learned since that the Marines were not given one c looka very unsportsmanlike.

A FAN.

THE HOSPITAL FOUNDER

Whoever has the welfare of this community at heart can but view with a special interest the approaching thirtieth anniversary of the opening of the Cottage (now the Portsmouth) Hospital—which occurred October 15, 1885. Such a blessing to Portsmouth and its neighborhood has this charity proved that the name of its founder must ever be held in loving remembrance.

With truth it has been observed that the establishment of hospitals for the sick, infirm and helpless is to be ascribed to the early Christians. No institution of the kind, it appears, was known among the ancients. It is indeed a happy circumstance that the founder of the Portsmouth Hospital enjoys a well-earned reputation as a poet who sings devotedly of the Christian faith.

"Heavenly Master"

Was the Guest that supped with me? Nor should it be overlooked that the former home of the Hospital (the house on Court street) is rich in associations with the boyhood of another poet, likewise a native of Portsmouth.

Harriet McEwen Kimball began the work that today is carried forward in the Portsmouth Hospital. As head of the Relief Chapter of St. John's church when the Rev. Charles A. Holbrook was rector, this gentlewoman almost alone undertook the task of looking out for sick persons in town among the poor, irrespective of church affiliations. It was an humble beginning. But the work once started attracted from time to time a helper, and began a lively interest among our citizens. When the "Poin Hallway" house on Court street, was occupied, the enterprise had grown to take on the character of a real hospital. Its modest aim, however, stood revealed in the name "Cottage."

A debt of gratitude, one ought to acknowledge, is due to the memory of the late Rev. Henry Emerson Hovey, so long the rector of St. John's, for the constant aid rendered by him in advancing the purposes of the charity that was so near to his heart. Many liberal benefactors have contributed to build up the Hospital, and special mention may properly be made of the generous and wisely bestowed gifts of the Honorable Woodbury Langdon, one of the Hospital's best friends.

It is not the patient only who is blessed by relief which this charity affords. Those who have given of their time or means (or of both) have felt that they are better men and women. They too, have gained in health. Miss Kimball is happily still living in Portsmouth, in the contentment of a serene, old age—a faithful worker that has earned the rich reward of seeing the Portsmouth Hospital as it is today.—Frank Warren Hackett.

HOODOO DAY AT THE YARD

Four Mechanics Injured on the Government Reservation on Tuesday.

Tuesday was a hoodoo day at the navy yard in the way of accidents as four workmen received more or less serious injuries there during the day. The men injured were Charles T. Bailey, Charles Adams, Thomas Morrow, all of Kittery and Carroll B. Pierce of North Kittery.

Bailey who is employed in the boat shop had three fingers severed by a circular saw, Adams while operating a pipe fitting machine in building number 82, lost half of his little finger up to the second joint on his right hand. Morrow, who is a machinist lost the end of his left thumb in some machinery while working in building number 79. Pierce, a pipefitter, while working in building number 89, dropped a heavy drill on his right foot, crushing the second and third toes. All of the men were treated at the yard dispensary and later went to their homes.

NAVY YARD NOTES

Change in His Order.

The department has ordered an extension of time to Admiral Pond, who will later command the local yard. Admiral Pond, who is commander-in-chief of the Pacific reserve fleet, was to be relieved by Capt. William L. Putnam on Sept. 30 at Bremerton and proceeded to Portsmouth. This change of orders keeps him on the Pacific coast until Nov. 1 or later.

From Durham College

A party of forty from the New Hampshire college at Durham visited the yard in automobiles on Tuesday and were shown about the reservation by Chief Boatwain Frank Carragher. After taking lunch in Portsmouth the party returned to the institution much pleased with the trip to the government reservation.

Will Not Play Here

The Marine football team appears to be dissatisfied with the conditions that surrounded the game played with the All Stars in this city on Saturday last and have cancelled their games in Portsmouth. They have issued a challenge to the All Star team to meet them on the yard gridiron.

Attended Ball Game

Several yard officers attended the world's series games between Boston and Philadelphia at Boston on Tuesday.

Hard Work

The marine rifle teams from the barracks and naval prison are putting in considerable practice work in their respective galleries with the rifle for the inter-post contest to be held later at Watthrop, Maryland.

STOCKHOLDERS REFUSE TO UPHOLD DIRECTORS

The stockholders of the Concord and Montreal railroad, at a meeting at Concord Tuesday refused to adopt a resolution presented by the board of directors recommending that they join with other leased lines in any "reasonable plan" for the preservation of the Boston and Maine system. Through the efforts of three members of the board, Clarence E. Carr, James W. Henkle and Samuel C. Eishman, the resolution was amended to provide against such action on any plan for consolidation or reorganization without the approval of the stockholders.

Mr. Carr also succeeded in having the meeting adopt a resolution in favor of a close alliance between the Concord and Montreal and other leased lines of the Boston and Maine for offensive and defensive purposes against any attempt to absorb their properties without giving them adequate protection or compensation.

The directors were instructed to inquire into the exigency said to exist requiring the absorption of the leased lines and to report a concrete plan of action to be approved by the stockholders.

GERMAN ATTACK FAILS

The infantry assault followed a violent artillery bombardment, but the French infantry anticipating the assault were ready and drove the Germans back with heavy loss, not a man reaching the French lines.

DEFACING THE MONUMENT

We are informed that of late there has been a practice of defacing the Soldiers and Sailors monument in Goodwin park by chalk and other marks, presumably the work of young boys. Such acts of vandalism in a civilized community are entirely out of place and if the parties guilty of this class of work are detected, they should be punished to the full extent of the law.

ODD FELLOWS IN STATE CONVENTION

Local Lodges Represented at Grand Lodge in Gorham.

The annual meeting of the Grand Lodge of New Hampshire I. O. O. F. is being held today at Gorham with a large attendance, all of the subordinate lodges of the state being represented, including the New Hampshire Elstacataqua and Osgood lodges of this city.

Grand Master Walter H. Tripp presided and made his annual address. Grand Secretary F. L. Noy and Grand Treasurer W. W. Cotton of this city made their annual reports.

It is interesting to note that the past year closed with the largest membership in its history; namely 15,558, a net gain of 45 over the previous year. The financial standing of both branches of the order shows a very gratifying increase; and the current expenses of each were somewhat less than the previous year.

The grand assembly of the State Rebekah is being held at the same time and the Fannie A. Gardner lodge of this city is represented by Mrs. Charles Wendell, Mrs. George Coram and Mrs. Ida A. Urech.

TO MAKE SHELLS AT FREEMAN'S POINT

employed and it is running full capacity every twenty-four hours.

The new company, the Herald is in a position to know, is backed by the J. P. Morgan Co. of New York, the great bankers, and that already contracts for $27,000,000 are assured the company. That the shell making machinery for all sizes is being built and will be ready for installation within a short time.

The new company, to be known as the R. B. Phillips Co., and its president is R. B. Phillips, who is at the head of the American Steam Gauge and Valve Co.

On Tuesday evening the company, through its attorney, Judge E. L. Gupilli, petitioned the city council for an abatement of taxes on all new machinery and new buildings. That is, the city share, expressing a willingness to pay the state and county tax if exempt from the city.

The council unanimously granted the exemption, with the condition that work be started within a certain date. Plant in Good Condition.

The buildings at the Paper plant, while unused for some years, have always been kept in the best of repair and under the best fire protection. Steam has been always up in the boiler room and a night and day fireman in attendance in addition to the regular two-shift watchmen.

The buildings are all of heavy mill construction on the heavy concrete foundations, and Mr. R. J. Fosburg, who was one of the original builders, on a recent visit here stated that this plant was as well built as any modern plant in the country and since his departure from this city he has erected some of the best in the West.

The buildings are: The administration, $8,855, of marble and brick, two stories high and with 14 offices; manufacturing building No. 1, 542,500, three stories high, with shipping platform inside and outside of the building, and fitted with fire sprinkler, in fact all buildings are alike protected with the sprinkling system; No. 2 is 380,000 feet, two stories; No. 3, 210,182 feet, in addition for storage purposes there are two buildings, one 182,233 feet, three stories, and another 182,175 feet, one story, both heavy mill construction.

Engine room, all heavy brick and steel construction, one story and basement, 120,872 feet, 45 feet high, equipped with two Curtis (G. & E.) steam turbines, each 500 k.w., condensers, etc. Large General Electric switchboard, generators, etc., also 75 horse-power engine for lighting purposes.

Duller house, 137,999 feet, equipped with overhead steel and concrete bunkers of 2500 tons capacity; four 500 horse-power B. & W. boilers ready to run and all equipped.

Fire pump building, 26,230, equipped with 1500-gallon Underwriters' fire pump.

In addition the foundation is in for several other buildings, and the dock, with a depth of 27 feet at low tide in good repair.

A dispatch from Wilmington, Del., has the following to say:

Wilmington, Del., October 12.—That the du Pont Powder Company is backing the R. B. Phillips Manufacturing Company of New York in acquiring the big plant of the Publishers Paper Company at Portsmouth, N. H., and is planning soon to make gun cotton and shrapnel shells there to fill a $24,000,000 contract for Russia is a report that has become current.

Representatives of the du Pont Company, according to their custom, will neither affirm or deny the report, but various bits of evidence appear to show the report well founded.

A week ago the Portsmouth City Council voted to exempt certain property at the Paper Company plant from local taxation for ten years if all state and county taxes would be paid. At that meeting it was stated that the Phillips Company was going to take over the plant for the manufacture of war munitions, and would start operations about November 1, beginning with 1000 men and raising the number to 3000.

Since then the plans for installation of machinery and other preliminary work have been drawn and the actual work of fitting the great plant for its new industry is expected to start any day. The machinery for making the shells is being built and will soon be forwarded.

Under the war contracts, one in each fifty of the shells made is tested by the inspectors detailed by the foreign government, and a range for the testing of the shells has already been chosen.

Although the prospect of this big contract means a good deal to the city of Portsmouth and to New Hampshire in general, so that generous co-operation with the company is looked for, very little about the transfer of the plant and the plans for shell manufacture has got into the public prints. The business transactions were carried out very quietly, and only last week when unusual activity was noticed about the long empty mills, did talk start.

DAN CUPID'S WORK WAS VERY SPEEDY

Harry W. Beckett of New York city, aged 30, and Miss Mabel M. Kimball of York, Me., 10 years his junior, were married at City hall on Tuesday by City Clerk Frederick E. Drew. In this matrimonial event the work of Dan Cupid was speedy. It was love at first sight. The groom, who is a member of the government engineer corps, came to York only a few months ago, where he met the bride and the acquaintance quickly ripened into love with the result that the customary five days' notice was given at the local city hall and the couple made one. The groom gave his occupation as a machinist and was anxious that the marriage take place before the corps returned to Washington.

JAW BROKEN IN BOXING MATCH

Kid Chakas of Manchester Injured at Quamphagan Park.

Kid Chakas of Manchester is lying at the Wentworth hospital, Dover, under a doctor's care as the result of five rounds of fighting held in connection with the boxing exhibition at Quamphagan Park on Tuesday night.

The events arranged as special Columbus Day attractions were headed by the 12 round go between Chakas and Phiney Boyle of Lowell, Mass. In the first round the Manchester lad received a dozen severe blows to the jaw besides body punches and it was seen that he was outclassed. In the third round, repeated blows to the jaw resulted in the fracturing of the bone. The kid was grimacing and held out under the merciless slashing until the fifth round when he was forced to quit from exhaustion. His injuries were deemed severe enough to remove him to a hospital for treatment and Dr. H. O. Chesley dressed his head and body.

In the preliminaries Spider Murphy of Manchester was considered a shade better than Kid Shims of the prison ship Southern, Battling Brooks and Young Dillon, both of Dover, also went a four round draw. Jimmy Quinn of Dover refereed.

A modern society drama based on the great play and novel by the same name, in five parts, by the Fox Film Corporation.

The story:

Pierre Rameau, the son of a poor gate tender, becomes, through a natural aptitude for the medical profession, the foremost physician and surgeon in Paris. Conchita, his wife, whom he loves above everything on earth, dies leaving an infant daughter. Rameau is inconsolable. He keeps the room where his wife died inviolate, visiting it on every anniversary of her death. Many years later on one of these visits he discovers among her letters evidence proving that his wife had been unfaithful, that Pamela, whom he had reared from childhood in building workahood, is not his child. The shock almost unbalances his mind. He drives the girl from his home and refuses to go to her even when she is thought to be dying. His best friend, Dr. Talavanne, almost drags him to her bedside. As he enters the room the girl stretches out her arms to him. Rameau is conquered. His hate for the innocent child is dissipated by the sight of her suffering. Like a fiend he labors to save her from death, bringing all his skill and science to bear and in the end he is successful. Pamela is saved for a life of love and happiness.

SERBIA INVADED BY BULGARIAN FORCES

Strike Also Made at Nish and Allies' Line of Communication--Orient Railroad Objective Point.

London, Oct. 12.—Bulgaria's attack on Serbia has begun, according to a dispatch from Athens. Two Bulgarian divisions are engaged in the attack. The Bulgarians crossed the frontier at Karlovo, near the Serbian city of Kraljevo.

The Bulgarians had been concentrating for several days on their own side of the international boundary close to this point.

Kraljevo is about 20 miles from Nish, Serbia's temporary capital, which is on the railroad the allies must traverse from Salonica. If they are to help the Serbians to resist the Austro-German advance.

Thus the Bulgarians are striking both at the Serbian governmental headquarters and at the allies' line of communication for heading off the Teutonic forces drive on Constantinople.

Gen. von Mackensen's Austro-German army, about 150,000 strong, was still pushing forward. At latest accounts received here, to the southeastward, also in the direction of Nish and a junction with the Bulgarian invaders.

The Serbians were reported resisting this advance, but it was believed they were trying only to delay, not to stop it, in the hope of making it so slow the allies would have time to come to the rescue.

While the Austro-Germans' crossing of the Danube into Serbia proved a success, the Serbian version today was still to the effect that the Teutonic troops had not yet managed to get the Serbian banks of the river Save and Drina. Day fighting was reported along both streams.

Nish Says Drive of Austro-Germans Checked.

Nish, Serbia, via London, Oct. 12.—Hurled back at many points along the Danube, Save and Drina rivers, the Austro-German forces were making no progress today with their attempted Serbian invasion except in Belgrade and its immediate vicinity.

Along the Danube the Serbians repulsed all attacks between the towns of Plava and the Morava river north. In this section, assuming a violent counter-offensive, the Serbian troops drove the enemy's forces which had already crossed the Danube back to the Hungarian side and captured four howitzers and four Maxim guns.

Another attempted crossing between Smederevo and Godolins was repulsed except for a small Austro-German detachment, which reached Smederevo only to be annihilated or chased back in such haste the men threw themselves into the Danube.

Belgrade, which the invaders captured was retaken by the Serbians. Even in Belgrade's neighborhood the invaders were meeting hot resistance. The suburb of Great Vatcher remained in Serbian hands, despite repeated heavy Austro-German attacks.

The Austro-Germans were described in a Nish dispatch published in Paris today as having been driven back to Great Vatcher, but the impression was given that it was held by the invaders.

CITY COUNCIL SCORES BOARD OF PUBLIC WORKS

Councilman Bennett asked why the Board was short. Discussion showed that Superintendent Sugden was neglecting to secure the necessary voucher required by the ordinance when money was expended by his department and that the auditor was unable to know how the accounts stood until the end of the month or until the bills were presented for payment. Councilman Dowdell said, "Mr. Sugden should be compelled to get the necessary voucher from the auditor in the same manner as the City Clerk, who has to apply for a voucher if he wants to buy a postage stamp or a lead pencil. If Mr. Sugden had his way he would build the city over again and drive the tax rate up to $35.00 on a thousand. He has not acted in good faith with the city council. His actions in these matters indicate that he was determined that the Council should appropriate that $2000 taken from his original draft and in his deluded state."

Mayor Yeaton attempted to answer the questions and defend the Board, stating that at the beginning of the year, when curtailment was mentioned, that Mr. Sugden stated that the only departments in which curtailments could be made were in the removal of ashes, the removal of snow from the sidewalks and the sanding of sidewalks in bad weather. He said that the law made the other duties of the board obligatory. He said, "When it was suggested, the council and influential citizens in the city voiced the sentiment that the removal of the ashes was a necessity and should be continued. At that time, the necessity of removing snow and sanding sidewalks was passed. It was your desire that the ashes be taken care of by the city."

This was admitted by Mr. Dowdell and he stated that in his opinion Mr. Sugden was playing that as a game. "He is playing on the sympathy of the citizens when he uses that system. The removal of the ashes is one of the necessities that we all require. You know that either you or I could do this work at a lower figure than it has been done. He is not using the council right. He acts as though he considered us a lot of saps and that we didn't amount to anything."

Councilman Hett asked, "If we give them this money how do we know that they won't spend it and come back for more?"

The Mayor stated that they could only use this money, if it was turned over to them, for the purpose it was intended. This answer didn't satisfy Mr. Hett, he claiming that they had had sufficient funds at the beginning of the year. He asked what money had already been spent and how. He was answered by Mr. Loughton, the auditor, whose books showed that to date the removal of the ashes had cost $1081.32, months on private lands, $524.29 and street payroll, $9184.17, making a total of $10,792.69.

Councilman Bennett stated that it was his opinion that the Board was wrong. "They haven't acted in good faith with the council. The percentage of money used this year is ahead of last. It seems to me that the city should spend less for maintenance each year instead of more." He then quoted figures from other years which substantiated his statements that the appropriations were not growing less as they should in his opinion.

Mr. Dowdell asked what streets had been oiled, the question being answered by the Mayor, who attends the meetings of the Board of Public Works as Chairman, ex-officio. Mr. Dowdell was satisfied at this but still opposed to any further amounts being spent at this time.

Councilman Smart said, "I am opposed to this transfer being made." He then asked the auditor, through the Mayor, if Mr. Sugden could tell where he stood with his accounts. The answer showed that on May 28, 1915, a card system was instituted in the office of the Board and that it should correspond with the card system in the auditor's office. "But," said Mr. Loughton, "as he doesn't get vouchers every day and as I don't change my cards until after the warrant is drawn for the payment of the bills, his cards are a few days ahead of mine." But he should know by his card accounts just where he stands.

Councilman Northwick demanded that some action be taken at once on the case. He asked that the money in the departments of the Board be stated and that it might be found that there was sufficient money there for the transfer without going into other departments.

The auditor's books showed that there was $2000 remaining from the appropriation for the repairs to the South Mill Bridge, $700 in the crushed stone department and about $500 left in the funds of the New Castle avenue sewer. After much discussion it was thought that much of this money might be needed for other departments before the year was over although some of it would be turned into revenue and back into the city treasury.

Councilman Smart moved that the resolution be laid on the table but this

NEW DEMAND MADE BY U. S. ON GERMANY

Note Dispatched Tuesday Asks Better Protection Than Small Boats for Passengers and Seamen.

Washington, Oct. 12.—The United States in a note dispatched to Germany today to be presented by Ambassador Gerard on the case of the American ship William P. Frye asks that if it is found necessary to destroy American ships carrying absolute contraband, passengers and crew be removed to a safer place than small boats.

The American Government accepts the German suggestion in reply to the American proposal concerning a commission to fix damages for the Frye, agreeing to dispense with the umpire and leave the case to the two experts one from each country.

In agreeing to submit to arbitration the interpretation of the treaty of 1823, to determine whether it gives Germany the right to destroy American ships in order to stop contraband traffic, the American Government holds that not only must warning be given and passengers and crew saved, but that small boats are not considered a "place of safety" within the meaning of international law. The United States has not insisted upon this heretofore with reference to Americans traveling on ships under a belligerent flag. Officials here, however, feel that the treaty was a special arrangement between Germany and the United States expressly drawn for the purpose of protecting the vessels and lives of subjects of either party in war time. Since one of the articles of the treaty specifically provides for the delivery of contraband out of the cargo of an American ship and then states that the vessel can proceed to its destination, the American Government draws the inference that it was never intended that American vessels should be destroyed.

Germany has drawn the opposite inference that the sole object of the treaty was to prevent contraband from reaching the enemy and that destruction was permissible if no other means presented itself. In consenting to arbitrate this point, however, the American Government is insisting that the minimum of injury shall fall upon American citizens, and believes that an assurance with reference to the safety of passengers and crews of American ships carrying absolute contraband will sufficiently safeguard American interests.

Germany already has given the assurance that American vessels carrying conditional contraband will not be molested under any circumstances, but according to recent declarations by Germany, in retaliation for British declarations of contraband, practically everything that hitherto was conditional contraband is now considered absolute contraband.

was later withdrawn as the mayor demanded a recorded vote and some of the councilmen objected to this. After more discussion during which the auditor was consulted several times as to the funds remaining in the Public Works Department, Councilman Northwick moved that the resolution be presented, with the exception of the $1000.00 for the oil and repairs to streets which were not thought necessary, be passed. The motion was out by the Mayor and was passed.

Councilman Bennett made the necessary motion for the transfer of funds from the Five Whistle account for the several departments and this resolution was passed.

A resolution was passed for the transfer of funds from the revenues of the water department for the year of 1915 for the maintenance of the department.

The meeting adjourned at 10:25 p.m.

SAILORS FIND NEWPORT SLOW

Four Thousand Sailors Get Shore Liberty From Fleet

Four thousand men from the Atlantic fleet were given liberty after five nights and days in the war game, and with pockets filled with money found Newport resorts closed tight because of the recent complaint of the naval authorities.

Special cars and automobiles were chartered by sailormen for trips to Fall River and Providence, others going to Boston on leave of two days, as the fleet remains for the week after which the battleships are going to their navy yards.

Hot water was the best the sailors could secure to drink.

Saturday night the police raided an alleged crap resort on Long Wharf, finding 60 bluejackets playing or watching the game and taking over $500 the bank had evidently taken in, which is now in the safe at the police headquarters.

Chief of Police James R. Crowley and Chief Inspector John S. Tolia arrested a bluejacket Saturday night for giving liquor to two naval apprentices from the training station. The alleged liquor dispenser, Harrison March of the U. S. N. Louisiana was sent back in his ship under guard and the apprentices returned to the training station under arrest.

Corp. J. E. Corpege, United States Marine Corps, earlier in the day won the members' match for the individual championship of the National Association, making a perfect score of 50. Sergeant J. Stewart, First Cadet Corps, Boston was second. One hundred and five contestants were awarded cash prizes. The lowest score in the first 105 was 47.

The October meeting of the probate court was held today at the Exeter court house, and there were several attorneys from this city present.

"I WANT TO WARN YOU AGAINST THE CRAZE PEOPLE IN THIS COUNTRY HAVE FOR WHITE FLOUR. THE WHITEST FLOUR IS NOT THE BEST; IT IS NOT THE PUREST; IT IS ONLY THE DEAREST, AND WHEN YOU BUY IT YOU BUY LOOKS AND NOT NOURISHMENT. IN ORDER TO MAKE IT WHITE, SOME OF THE MOST NOURISHING AND ESSENTIAL COMPONENTS OF THE NATURAL WHEAT HAVE BEEN TAKEN AWAY."

These "nourishing and essential components" are the priceless mineral phosphates of the grain, known as the "tissue salts," indispensable for perfect health of body, brain and nerves.

Everywhere food scientists and physicians are sounding a like note of warning, for a host of ills is following the pernicious practice of casting out these elements in the milling process, and that, simply to make the flour look white and pretty. Neurathenia, anemia, Bright's disease, constipation, rickets, and a lowered resistance against disease in general, are some of these ills.

More and more thinking people are waking up to this evil. There's a way out.

NAVY'S DIRIGIBLE IS NOT READY FOR DELIVERY

Washington, Oct. 12.—Somewhat concerned about the failure of the Connecticut Aircraft Company of New Haven to deliver a dirigible balloon in time for the official trials on Oct. 1, the Navy Department will send an officer to New Haven this week to ascertain the cause of the delay. Lieutenant Commander F. R. McCarty, associated with Captain Mark L. Bristol, in charge of the office of naval aeronautics, has been designated to make the trip to New Haven. The Navy Department has been unable to get from the Connecticut company the working drawings of the balloon. It is the custom at the Navy Department to attempt no inspections of work being done under contract for the navy until the contractors furnish corrected working drawings. These are used by the inspectors as a basis for checking the work actually done to see whether or not it conforms to the specifications. Requests that the drawings be submitted to the Department have been met with the reply that they were nearly ready and would be forwarded soon. The dirigible in question is the first ordered for the navy. It is to be a comparatively small one and for experimental purposes only.

Last spring bids were received from a number of concerns and it was considered that on the basis of design and price the Connecticut company submitted the best proposal. Accordingly a contract was signed with that firm. Captain Thomas Baldwin was understood to be associated with the firm. Meantime the Navy Department has been building a hangar for the dirigible at Pensacola, Fla. This hangar is not quite finished. It is said that should it appear that the delays in the delivery of the dirigible only arise out of the fact that such construction is relatively new in the United States and that within a reasonable time the balloon will be ready the Department will grant such extensions of time to the Connecticut company as may be necessary.

Last Two Weeks of This Famous Spectacle, at the Majestic Theatre, Boston. At the end of its thirteenth consecutive weeks, after having played no less than three hundred and sixty times to as many separate and distinct audiences, "The Birth of a Nation" will terminate its Boston engagement on Saturday night, October 30. During this marvelous run, which long ago broke all previous Boston records for continuous engagement, no less than 600,000 people have been numbered among the Boston audiences, which means, in other words, that the number of people who have seen the mighty Griffith spectacle equals four-fifths of the entire population of the city.

Entering upon its final two weeks with interest unabated, it is probable that many thousands more will be added to the total patronage before the doors are closed upon this incomparable production. "The Birth of a Nation" has been called "the eighth wonder of the world," and certainly, in point of theatrical longevity, the term is well deserved, here in Boston. Yet the unprecedented attendance upon these seven months' performances is due to absolutely nothing except the inherent merit in the production. When it is considered that years of study and months of training and half a million dollars in cash were devoted to the preparation of this, the Nation's history, the reward was only just, considering the risks and sacrifices involved. And it is with a feeling of gratitude to its patrons, as well as pride of achievement, that the management terminates this memorable run in Boston. Three hundred and sixty performances—equal to 45 weeks, or nearly eleven months of a regular, eight-performance-a-week theatrical attraction! "The Birth of a Nation" has hung up a record which seems destined to challenge emulation for a long time.

"A PAIR OF SLIK STOCKINGS"

Only One Week More of the Positively Limited Three Weeks Engagement of This Unique Comedy Success at Ye Wilbur Theatre, Boston.

After one whole year in London and all last season in New York, Cyril Harcourt's comedy success, "A Pair of Slik Stockings," has been presented by Mr. Whitthrop Ames at Ye Wilbur Theatre, Boston, where it met with instant favor. In bringing to Boston this exceptional attraction from his Little Theatre, in New York City, Mr. Ames stipulated that it must be played at Ye Wilbur Theatre where the intimacy of its limited capacity lending its charm to an intimate play is the keynote of the great success of this new playhouse.

It is unfortunate that so pronounced a comedy success can remain in Boston but three weeks, but the booking arrangement made a long time ago was for that length of time, and no change can be made. Consequently, next week, beginning Monday, October 18th, will positively be the last one of its stay in Boston.

The stockings about which the plot more or less revolves do not assume a conspicuous importance until the latter part of the second act, although they are worn by Molly Thornhill until the divorcing scene. Nevertheless other matters pleasantly fill the one's interest while awaiting the presentation of the actual nucleus. Sam Sothern is a wholly delightful comedian in the role of Sam Thornhill. His methods are original, although many of his laughs depend upon stepping over obstructing furniture and the use of quaint epithets. Eva Leonard-Boyer is an attractive Molly Thornhill. Her work is sincere and she dominates her scenes. Allison Skipworth gives a splendid performance of Lady Gower and is an ideal type for the part. Sybil Carlisle is Irene Matland, in love with the Captain and therefore a trifle entitled. Captain Bagnall is played well by P. Clayton Greene and Wallace Erskine is a dutifully devoted husband to Lady Gower. A particularly good bit of work is done by Theodore Duggie as the tramp. The rest of the cast is well balanced.

"EXPERIENCE"

Last Week of This Most Wonderful Play in America, at the Shubert Theatre, Boston.

The final week of "Experience" at the Shubert Theatre, beginning Monday, October 23, is announced by a regretful management, and this celebrated morality play will have to leave Boston at the height of its extraordinary success on Saturday night, October 23. Every effort has been put forth to extend the engagement, but in vain, as contracts for another attraction at the Shubert Theatre were signed before the management of the theatre realized the immense hit "Experience" was destined to score in Boston. The play has been presented before a series of capacity audiences, the past six weeks, and it seems almost a crime to the community to take this wonderful play away from Boston. The rush for seats for all remaining performances has been so great that it seems certain the play could have played to big audiences until the New Year. But contracts cannot be broken and so "Experience" must depart.

The usual Wednesday and Saturday matinees will be given for the remainder of the engagement. It should not be forgotten that the matinee performances given on Wednesday afternoons are bargain matinees, when the best orchestra seats may be had for one dollar.

TO ELECT BISHOP OF MAINE

Special Convention Will be Held in Portland on Dec. 1.

Portland, Me., Oct. 12.—A special convention to elect a bishop of the Episcopal diocese of Maine, in place of the late Rt. Rev. Robert Codman, will be held in Portland on Dec. 1. The date was fixed by the standing committee of the diocese and notices will be sent out later.

Lime Starvation Causes Tuberculosis

The Medical Record (New York) of December 15, 1909, contains an article on "The Treatment of Pulmonary Tuberculosis, Based on the Assumption That the Dietetic Cause of the Disease is Lime Starvation," by Dr. John F. Russell, who says: "The condition which is recognized as preceding the active development of tuberculosis in the adult may be considered as due to lime starvation. Among inorganic substances lime and sulfur are the most important physiological importance. But if the salts are not in organic combination it is difficult to suppose that the cells can appropriate them for food." Years of widespread use confirm us in the belief that the success of Eckman's Alternative in cases of pulmonary tuberculosis (consumption) and chronic throat and bronchial troubles is due in large measure to its content of lime, so combined with other ingredients as to be easily appropriated by the cells. Doubtless this has had much to do with the results obtained in many cases of these affections, which appear to have yielded to Eckman's Alternative. As it contains no opiates, narcotics or habit-forming drugs, it is safe to try. Your druggist will order it for you or you can send direct. Eckman's Laboratory, Philadelphia. Sold by Benjamin Green, Druggist, Portsmouth, N. H.

CHINESE SEEK RETURN TO MONARCHY

PRESIDENT YUAN BESIEGED WITH PETITIONS TO THAT EFFECT—GOVERNMENT TO BE CONSTITUTIONAL

Peking, Oct. 12.—In a mandate dated Oct. 10, and issued last night President Yuan Shi Kai acknowledges the receipt from all the provinces of the Chinese republic of petitions urging a restoration of the monarchy. He states emphatically that the will of the people must solve the question of a change in the form of government and that any change must be in accordance with the constitutional compact. In order that the people's real wishes may be obeyed President Yuan Shi Kai orders those in control of the elections to perform their duties strictly in accordance with the law.

It is learned officially that the National Assembly will be called early next year, and that whichever form of government is decided upon in the impending expression of the popular will, the government will be a constitutional one.

President Yuan Shi Kai's statement indicates that he will accept the emperorship if the people declare for the unqualified form of government.

BOTH ARE HELD IN $100 BONDS

COUPLE ARRESTED TUESDAY MORNING IN RAID APPEARED IN MUNICIPAL COURT YESTERDAY.

Agnes Napolitano, 27, and Peter Nannena, 23, were held in $100 each for their appearance at the October term of the Superior court, yesterday in the Municipal court on a charge of adultery. They were released when bail was furnished.

The couple were arrested early Tuesday morning on a warrant sworn out by the woman's husband, Dominick Napolitano, of 109 Hangeck street, Brockton, Mass. It was claimed by the husband that Nannena, who had been boarding at their home in Brockton for more than a year, eloped with his wife some four weeks ago and had been living here since. In court yesterday morning the woman said that her husband had been cruel to her, beating her repeatedly and that she had intended getting a divorce. She asked permission to remain here in Portsmouth with her little child, a 19 month's old girl.

This request was granted, Mrs. Napolitano returning to the lodgment on Jackson street, where she will reside until the opening of court. Nannena is employed in the city as a tailor.

From the tone of the members of the City Council at the meeting last evening it looks as though the management of the Board of Public Works wasn't at all satisfactory to them.

Though the police have no line on the robbery they believe that it was the work of parties who knew the premises. Shortly after midnight people residing nearby heard the man moving the machine and making a start on Brewster street, but paid no attention thinking it was the owner of the same. The machine is a 1914 Davidson make, license number 1095 and painted grey.

CELEBRATED THEIR GOLDEN WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Trueman of Union street on Tuesday celebrated their fiftieth or golden anniversary of their wedding, and in honor of the event entertained their children and grand-children and great-grand-children in the form of a family reunion. It was a very enjoyable gathering and one of the pleasantest occasions in the long life of the old couple.

Mr. and Mrs. Trueman were married October 10, 1865 at St. Luke's church, Nova Scotia, where both were born and brought up. They came to this city a quarter of a century ago and since that time have made their home here, and have gathered around them a great many friends.

Both are devout members of the Christ Episcopal church and have been active as have their children in the life of the church in this city.

At the gathering the children presented their parents with a purse of gold and they also received many other tokens of the love and esteem of their children and friends.

A supper was served and there were present the following children: Stanton Trueman, clerk of the municipal court; Sidney S. Trueman, the well known contractor of this city; Frank W. Trueman, also of this city; and Edward of Lynn; two daughters, Mrs. William St. Onge of this city and Miss Dora Trueman of Boston. There were also eleven grand-children and two great-grand-children present.

ENGINE HAULS 60 LOADED CARS

Makes Good Run With 2006 Tons on Boston and Maine.

The largest freight train ever hauled by one locomotive over the Portland division of the Boston and Maine passed through here this morning from Portland this morning for Boston. The train consisted of sixty loaded cars with 2000 tons of freight. The train was moved by a consolidation locomotive number 2708 with Engineer W. W. Wells in the cab. P. H. Smith was the conductor. The train made an excellent run from Kennebunk to Portsmouth, covering that distance in an hour. The most of the train was composed of export freight coming from the several lines running into Portland. In passing over the big grade from the depot to the Plains the engine whisked the sixty cars along with as much speed and ease as one of the west-bound passenger trains. Fifteen years ago it required two engines to move forty cars over the grade.
